1. INTRODUCTION

Elmwood Junior School is a Rights Respecting School and is committed to upholding the Rights enshrined in the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child.

This policy takes cognisance of:

- Article 2: The convention applies to every child without discrimination, whatever their ethnicity, sex, religion, language, abilities or any other status, whatever they think or say, whatever their family background.
- Article 28: Every Child has the Right to an Education.

Elmwood Junior School is an inclusive school where we focus on the well-being of every pupil and where all members of the school community are valued.

We welcome our duties under the Education and Inspections Act 2006 to promote community cohesion and the general and specific duties under the Equality Act 2010 as detailed in this policy.

We recognise that these duties reflect international human rights standards as expressed in the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child, the UN Convention on the Rights of People with Disabilities and the Human Rights Act 1998.

The Equality Act 2010 was introduced to ensure protection from discrimination, harassment and victimisation on the grounds of specific characteristics (referred to as protected characteristics). This means that schools cannot discriminate against pupils or treat them less favourably because of their sex, race, disability, religion or belief, gender reassignment, sexual orientation, pregnancy or maternity or those on paternity or adoption leave. Age and marriage and civil partnerships are also “protected characteristics” but are not part of the school provisions related to pupils.

We believe the Equality Act provides a framework to support our commitment to work to raise standards for all pupils and to tackle issues of disadvantage and underachievement of different groups. It also underpins our efforts to ensure that equality of opportunity is available to all. This means understanding and tackling the barriers which could lead to unequal outcomes for some, whilst celebrating and valuing the achievements and strengths of all members of the school community.

Equality should permeate all aspects of school life and it is the responsibility of all members of the school to ensure that it does. Equality is a key principle for treating all people fairly and creating a society in which everyone has the opportunity to fulfil their potential.

Our mission statement,

“Working together, Achieving together, Bringing out the best in everyone”

And our policies and ethos reflect the fact that we value:

- The uniqueness of each individual and their right to be valued and included;
- Respect for others and the environment;
- Values such as truth, honesty, justice, tolerance and understanding;
- Citizenship and democracy;
- The richness of our diverse cultural heritage.

2. AIMS

The Equality Act requires all public organisations to comply with the Public Sector Equality Duty and two specific duties.

The Public Sector Equality Duty or “general duty”

This requires all public organisations, including schools to:

- Eliminate unlawful discrimination and victimisation;
- Advance equality of opportunity between different groups;
- Foster good relations between different groups.

Two “specific duties”

This requires all public organisations, including schools to

- Publish information to show compliance with the Equality Duty;
- Publish Equality objectives which are specific and measurable at least every four years.

This policy describes how Elmwood Junior School is meeting these statutory duties in line with national guidance. It includes information about how the school is complying with the Public Sector Equality Duty and also provides guidance to staff and outside visitors about our approach to promoting equality. It forms part of the school's integrated safeguarding portfolio designed to safeguard pupils and promote their welfare.

3. KEY PRINCIPLES

This policy is based on the following key principles to which the school is fully committed:

- All members of the school community are equally valued

Whether or not they are disabled.

Whatever their ethnicity, culture, national origin or national status.

Whatever their sex.

Whatever their religious or non-religious affiliation or faith background.

Whatever their sexual orientation.

- We recognise, respect and value difference and diversity

We take account of differences and strive to remove barriers and disadvantages which people may face in relation to disability, sex, religion, belief or faith and sexual orientation.

We believe that diversity is a strength which should be respected and celebrated by all those who learn, teach and visit here.

We understand that treating people equally does not necessarily mean treating them the same. Our policies, procedures and activities must not discriminate but must take account of differences of life experience, outlook and background and the kinds of barrier and disadvantage which people may face in relation to:

Disability – so that reasonable adjustments can be made.

Ethnicity – so that different cultural backgrounds and experience of prejudice are recognised.

Sex– so that different needs of girls, boys, women and men are recognised;

Religion, belief or faith background.

Sexual orientation.

- We foster positive attitudes and relationships and a shared sense of community and belonging

At Elmwood Junior School the learning, achievements, attitude and well-being of all pupils and staff are of the utmost importance. We aim to foster a sense of community and belonging, ensuring that the policies and practices of the school respond to the diversity of its community and will prepare pupils well for life in a diverse and pluralistic society.

We intend that our policies, procedures and activities should promote:

- Positive attitudes towards disabled people, good relations between disabled and non-disabled people and an absence of harassment of disabled people.
- Positive interaction, good relations and dialogue between groups and communities different from each other in terms of ethnicity, culture, religious affiliation, national origin or national status and an absence of prejudice-related bullying and incidents.
- Mutual respect and good relations between girls, boys, women, men and an absence of sexual or homophobic harassment.

- We observe good equalities practice in staff recruitment, development, retention and employment.

We ensure that policies and procedures benefit all employees and potential employees in all aspects of their work including recruitment and promotion and in continuing professional development:

- Whether or not they are disabled.
- Whatever their ethnicity, culture, religious affiliation, national origin or national status.
- Whatever their sex, sexual orientation and with full respect for legal rights relating to pregnancy, maternity, paternity and adoption leave.

We recognise the need for positive role models and distribution of responsibility among staff and encourage career development and aspirations of all school staff. It is our policy to provide staff with training and development to increase awareness of the needs of different groups of pupils.

All staff involved in recruitment and selection are aware of what they should do to avoid discrimination and ensure equality good practice through the recruitment and selection process.

Training on equalities policy and procedures are included in our induction programme for staff.

- We expect that all pupils will make good progress and achieve their highest potential.

The school works to raise standards for all pupils and values all forms of achievement.

We recognise the differing needs of pupils and understand that for some pupils extra support is needed to help them achieve and be successful.

We analyse pupil performance to identify where there may be patterns of underachievement for particular groups and take action to rectify this and work to eliminate barriers to learning. We believe that improving provision for the most vulnerable groups of pupils raises standards across the whole school.

It incorporates the principles of equality and promotes positive attitudes to diversity. All subjects contribute to the spiritual, moral, social and cultural development of all pupils. Themed weeks, talks, assemblies, visits, displays and extra-curricular activities also play an important part and pupils are encouraged to challenge prejudice and stereotypes.

We use materials and resources that reflect our aims and we promote a whole school ethos that challenges prejudice-based discriminatory language, attitudes and behaviour.

When ordering new resources and materials, we will consider how they:

We keep each curriculum area under review to ensure that teaching and learning reflects our key principles as set out above.

Appropriate provision is made for leave of absence for religious observance for pupils and staff.
